

Call my bluff wine night returns this November

Tickets are now on sale for the Call my Bluff wine quiz which makes a welcome return to the Village Hall this November (Saturday 21st)

The format follows that of the popular TV series in that each person will blind taste a glass of wine then three top table speakers will each claim to name and describe the wine. Only one of the three will be telling the truth. identify the correct speaker and you could win prizes which include bottles of champagne.

There will be four white wines and four reds to identify plus some cheeses between wines. Tables of eight places cost £120 or individual places for £15 each. Contact David Wort on 573082 for a ticket
